Bridge Development Partners plans to construct a 263,415-square-foot distribution center at 750 Union Ave. in Union, N.J.

UNION, N.J. — Greiner-Maltz has arranged the sale of the former Tuscan Dairy site, located at 750 Union Ave. in Union, to Chicago-based Bridge Development Partners for an undisclosed price. Bridge Development plans to demolish the existing structures on the site and build a 263,415-square-foot distribution center. The center will have 36-foot ceilings, an ESFR sprinkler system, 50 tailboards, 116 trailer positions and parking for 150 cars. Designed to accommodate up to two tenants, the facility is slated for completion in November. Cornerstone Architects is providing architectural and structural design services and Premier Design & Build National LLC is serving as general contractor. Ray Musalo of Greiner-Maltz represented the seller, Industrial Realty Group, and the buyer in the deal.
