As Director of Sales at Greiner Maltz Investment Properties, Brandon Andersen is an informed and dedicated commercial real estate professional, with knowledge of all types of commercial properties throughout Northeastern Queens. Throughout his career, Brandon has established a strong network of both owners and investors in the local area.

Born in Bayside, and raised in Nassau County, Brandon is a New Yorker through and through. He studied Business Management at the University of Maryland in College Park, MD while concurrently working as one of the top sales representatives in the country for Vector Marketing, a national direct sales company with revenue of over 300 million per year. After being promoted to District Manager, he was responsible for training the sales team in New Jersey and overseeing all day-to-day operations. Brandon was actively recruited by Greiner Maltz Investment Properties to bring his sales expertise to the Commercial Real Estate Industry.

Although Brandon's experience and knowledge of the industry are important factors to his success, he believes that the trust and goodwill he establishes with both his clients and investors is what truly sets him apart from other real estate professionals.

Aside from real estate, Brandon has a passion for performance art, and is a supporter of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in Manhattan.
